The top customer-centric companies have deployed multichannel and omnichannel listening capabilities for a seamless cross-channel customer experience. They have also implemented text analytics for gleaning root-cause customer experience (CX) improvement insights from all sources of customer feedback—informing overall strategy at the executive level through robust data visualization dashboards, while informing tact out decisions at the location level through instant mobile alerts and management coaching tools.

References

Copyright © 2014, InMoment, Inc.